THE Homan's National Bank case was THE Homan's National Bank case was decided in the U.S. Court pesterday. The case is as follows: Benjamin Homans, jr., was engaged in the banking business in this city in the year 1809, but became insolvent toward the end of that year. Just before this time, however, Homans, being indebted to the First National Bank of Cincinnait, assigned to it $10,000 worth of sight drafts on New York, for which the said bank gave him credit on their books for $10,990. This credit on their books for $9.990. This occurred within the four months previous to his becoming insolvent. The suit was brought to have the assignment of said dratts declared an invalid act under the "Bankrupt Law." The Court granted the prayer of the petitioner, and set aside the transfer. Judgment accordingly.

A Musical Treat.

Cincinnatians rarely have an opportu-

Cincinnatians rarely have an opportunity of listening to organ concerts, and it was a happy thought in the powers that be to open the new Second Presbyterian Church for such purpose.

Two concerts will be given there next week, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. George W. Morgan, of New York city, will preside at the instrument and bring forth all its capabilities. The organ was built in this city, and citizens should have a local pride in knowing that the time has come when it is no longer necessary to send East. The U. C. D. Clur holds its first meeting of the season at the residence of Governor Cox on the 14th.

WILLIAM STEWART, the dairyman, says he isn't tue William Stewart arrested for carrying concealed weapons.

Knowing that the time has come when it is no longer necessary to send East, though the best instruments are demanded and will be paid for. The Second church would accept nothing inferior, and we rejoice that a Cincinnati firm is able to compete with the entire East in organ building. We trust our citizens will avail themselves of the opportunity given by the approaching concerts to enjoy the grand music that a master hand can bring forth

Canaries.

Rather more than three hundred years Rather more than torce nundred years ago, a ship partly laden with little green birds captured in the Canary Islands, having been wrecked near Elba, the birds made their escape, flew to the island, and there settled themselves. island, and there settled themselves. Numbers of them were caught by the inhabitants, and on account of their sprightly vivacity and the brilliancy of their voice they soon became great favorites, and rapidly spread over Europe. The original color of the canary is not the bright yellow with which its feathers are generally tinted, but a kind of dappled olive green, black and yellow, either color precominating according to circumstances. By careful managements the bird-fanciers are able to procure canaries of every tint between the three colors, having instituted a set of rules by which the quality and arrangement of the coloring is reduced to a regular system. Still the original dappled green is always apt to make its appearance, is always apt to make its appearance, and even when two colored birds are mated, a green one is pretty sure to be found in the nest. For my own part I care bitle for the artificial varieties produced by the fanciers, and to my mind an intelligent bird and a good songster is not one whit the less attractive because the colors of its plumage are not ar-ranged precisely according to the fancier's rules.

FROM A. BALLARD, LUMBER MERCHANT CHICAGO, May 18, 1870. Chicago, May 18, 1870.

I put in ten March Patent Grates (with Iron Mantels) in two new houses I huitton Michigan Avenue, in the spring of 1809. During the winter of 1809 and 1870 are was used in most, if not all, of the grates, in which was burned coke, soft and hard coal, with the most satisfactory results. I have in other houses in this city most all other kinds of grates, none of which I consider equal to the March Patent. In point of convenience when not in use, it is unsurpassed. The construction for setting is very simple, and remains perfect from use.
